

Waterloo Region Community Legal Services

Now Recruiting New Board Members

Join us to help provide equal access to justice for everyone in our community.

WRCLS ensures low-income individuals and families in our community have access to essential legal services by offering assistance, advice, and legal representation.

WRCLS helps with a wide range of legal matters including social assistance, housing, human rights, workplace safety, immigration and refugee law.

The WRCLS Board of Directors is a governing body that oversees the organization's activities. We develop strategy, provide oversight, and ensure accountability. All Board members are volunteers.

As part of our ongoing commitment to ensure our Board reflects the diversity of the communities we serve, we strongly encourage applications from Black, Indigenous, and other racialized people; 2SLGBTQIA+ individuals; people with disabilities; individuals with relevant lived and/or living experience; and other equity-seeking communities.

To strengthen the Board's core skills, we also welcome experience in areas such as HR, Accounting, or Media/Public Relations. However, we value a wide range of skills and perspectives, and all applications are encouraged.
